

SHANGHAI

Shanghai, situated on the banks of the Yangtze River Delta in East China, is the largest city of China and the eighth largest in the world. Widely regarded as the citadel of China's modern economy, the city also serves as one of the most important cultural, commercial, financial, industrial and communications centers of China. Originally a sleepy fishing town, Shanghai became China's most important city by the 20th century. Shanghai's skyscrapers and modern lifestyle mark the pinnacle of China's recent economic development. It attracts travelers from both home and abroad through its thriving commercial activity. It hosted the 2010 Shanghai EXPO.
